This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1894 edition. Excerpt: ... they are domiciled, will not give effect to judgments against them unless they received an actual notice in proper time to be able to defend the suit. When in any country in accordance with its laws, a summons is served constructively by posting at the door of the court or any other public place, "there is no pretence to say that such modes of proceeding can confer any legitimate jurisdiction over foreigners who are non-residents, and do not appear to answer the suit, whether they have notice of the suit or not. The effects of all such proceedings are purely local, and elsewhere they will be held to be mere nullities." Dr. Bigelow speaking of the rule of the American Courts, says---" If, the defendant is a citizen or resident of the state of the forum, he will be bound by the laws of that state concerning the mode of acquiring jurisdiction over him; if not, jurisdiction can be obtained over him, so as to make the judgment available for any purpose other than the appropriation of property of his actually levied upon, only by personal service of process upon him within the state of the forum, lawfully made, or by his voluntary and general appearance." It has often been held that a judgment can have the conclusive effect of a judgment in personam, only if the process is personally served upon the defendant, while he is within the jurisdiction of the sovereignty under which the court acts," for no sovereign has the right to issue such notice to the citizen of another state or country, and thereby draw the party from his own proper forum ad aliam e:ca-mera." A decree in personam merely can only be supported, against a person who is not a citizen or resident of the state in which it is rendered, by...
