Not illustrated. 1900 Excerpt: ... 25.-- Dearest Mama's birthday! I was with her at a quarter-past eight to wish her joy. Major Purves joined us at breakfast, and directly after Davison walked in we then laid our offerings at her feet, and a very pretty birthday table it was. At three Mama, Gussy, Doppus, and I started for the Crystal Palace, where we were met by George, Fritz, Knese, Purves, Jim, Lady Marian Alford, Libbet Yorke, Quin, and Norman Macdonald. After seeing the fountains play, and being mobbed whilst wandering through the courts, 1 A Society entertainer. we sat down in the centre to hear the band, and had a peep at dear Lady Wilton, who kindly chaperoned Katty down. At 6.30 we dined, a party of fourteen, in the Pompeian Court. It was a very merry party, and we toasted Mama in grand style. The only contretemps that occurred was the upsetting of a dish of cream over poor Mama. We took another ramble through the Palace, which had a fairy-like appearance by moonlight, before starting on our homeward journey; stopped en route to drink tea at the White Lodge. Cambridge Cottage, August 6.--... Had a visit from the Aumales and Lady Caroline Murray, and dressed for an early dinner, at which we were honoured by Edward Weimar's presence; it was such a treat to see him again after all he has done and undergone. At seven we started for the French play to see Eachel in Lady Tartuffe, a most interesting and well-acted piece. August 22.--... At half-past one we left for the Shoreditch station, changing carriages at St. James's. Suffie and Major Purves met us there, and soon after we steamed off for Shrubland Park, 1 Lord Winchester and Mr. Graham Vivian accompanying us. We reached our destination about seven, where the Middletons received us most kindly, and refreshed us with tea. We sat down ...
