Wing to Wing, Oar to Oar: Readings on Courting and Marrying (Ethics of Everyday Life)

Despite current concerns for family values and the dissolution of marriages, Amy A. and Leon R. Kass see very little attention being paid to what makes for marital success. They argue there are no longer socially prescribed forms of conduct that help guide young men and women in the direction of matrimony; the very concepts of wooing and courting seem archaic. Yet they see major discontent with the present situation and detect among their students certain longings - for friendship, for wholeness, for a life that is serious and deep, and for associations that are trustworthy and lasting - longings they do not realize could be largely satisfied by marrying well.
