The Politics of American Discontent: How a New Party Can Make Democracy Work Again Gordon S. Black, Benjamin D. Black

This is an analysis of America's dissatisfaction with its government, which explores the sources of discontent and offers a solution to the political turmoil, through the formation of a new political party that would have the power to force fundamental reform through Congress. Drawing on polling data as well as the internal sources of power in Washington, the authors depict a government veering out of control and an electorate prepared to challenge traditional politics and create sweeping reforms.
